The compile Time estimator is finally online.

The tool estimates how long a compile of a specified package list will take. It works similar to genlop, but includes packages your genlop installation hasn't seen yet. So it is more complete, it can show your times on a fresh installation.

There is also a patch for genlop available to integrate the data transparently into genlop runs. To enable this, download and apply the patch and add the commandline switch -q (for query this database).

Right now there are just a few CPU's listed, please send some more times this direction.

Oh yes, the link :)

Thanks to those who already submitted their compile times and to them who will.
